The British Empire – Mohandas K. Gandhi

Mohandas K. Gandhi was one of the greatest leaders of the 1900s. He helped free India from British colonial rule without using violence. Gandhi’s courage and morals\(^1\) won respect throughout the world. So did the methods of nonviolent resistance he used to gain Indian independence. Today, the people of India consider Gandhi the father of their nation.

Gandhi was born in 1869 in Western India. As a child, Gandhi was rebellious\(^2\). Once, he stole some jewelry from his brother. But Gandhi had a strong conscience. He confessed to his father. Gandhi expected anger and punishment. Instead, his father cried. Gandhi felt even worse. From then on, he understood the power of nonviolence. He would later write about the story, “Those pearl-drops of love cleansed my heart.”

Gandhi studied law in England. Soon after, he went to South Africa to do some legal work. It was there that Gandhi felt the sting of prejudice first-hand. Like India, South Africa was also a British colony. Gandhi had been asked to give up his seat on a train by a European person. When Gandhi refused, he was arrested by British police and badly beaten. He did not fight back with fists or weapons. Instead, he vowed to work peacefully to change unjust laws that didn’t protect a person’s rights.

In 1914, Gandhi returned to India. British laws there were unjust, placing many Indians at an economic disadvantage. For example, by law Indians could only buy goods made in British factories. To protest this system, Gandhi stopped wearing cloth made in Britain. Instead, he spun his own cloth from Indian cotton. He encouraged others to do the same. The boycott\(^3\) worked. It hurt British clothing sales in India. It also allowed Indians to sell more of their own cloth. With more income, they wouldn’t be as poor. Gandhi also fought British injustice by fasting. He would refuse to eat for five or six days. Gandhi’s fasts drew public attention to his cause. Newspapers and the public began to sympathize with Gandhi. They put pressure on the British government to change its ways.

Gandhi spent seven years in jail because of his political activities. To him, it was honorable to be jailed for a good cause. He continued his nonviolent protests and disobedience to British rule. He had faith that truth and nonviolence would win in the end. In 1947, Britain finally bowed to Gandhi’s peaceful pressure. India was finally granted independence. Sadly, Gandhi was assassinated for his beliefs in 1948. Years later, Martin Luther King, Jr. would use Gandhi’s nonviolent ways to protest injustice in America. Gandhi is remembered to this day as “Mahatma.” The word means “great soul.”
